

116 Years of Pride...

With today's edition of The Republican, we begin our 117th consecutive year of publication. It was Saturday, March 3, 1877, that Captain James A. Hayden published the first issue, and over 6,000 issues have been published since then, one each week, without exception, despite power outages, equipment failures, employee illness, and a host of other obstacles. Of that record, we are proud, and committed to making sure the string is not broken.

Since this is our "birthday," we thought it would be a good opportunity to comment on how we, the news writers, view ourselves and this entity that has been a part of life in Garrett County for more than a century.

Because news reporting, if done properly, is usually cold and unfeeling, we sense that the general public attaches those same characteristics to the people who write the news. We would like to make it clear that those of us in the newsroom are quite human, with feelings and imperfections. Our hearts are touched deeply when we must write about tragedy, sometimes causing us to shed tears. We feel regret when we must write about another local young person who is arrested. We agonize over our most complicated stories, and work extremely hard to make sure they are balanced and complete. We bend over backward and go the extra mile(s) to try to be a Garrett County newspaper, and not just an Oakland newspaper. We strive to be fair, and if we are convinced that we haven't been fair, or have made a mistake, we do our best to correct it. We receive and must absorb various forms of abuse, whether or not we believe we deserve it.

We are not a public agency. We are not employees of our readers. We are not governed by any agency, as are our media partners in radio by the FCC. We are a small, private, family enterprise, in many ways no different from the "mom and pop" grocery store on the corner. However, we set for ourselves what we believe to be the ultimate standards of good, sound journalism and work hard to abide by them. We recognize the awesome power of the media, power which can be extremely destructive if abused and overwhelmingly constructive when used appropriately.

We are proud of our "product" and we, the 26 dedicated people who work here, compose a proud, close-knit family. Each member of this family is concerned about the quality of our product and not one is afraid to get his/her hands dirty (inky) to make sure The Republican hits the streets every Thursday. Most importantly, we are proud to be part of such a unique and wonderful community as Garrett County. On that note, we begin our 117th year.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Your threat to the County Commissioners in your editorial of Feb. 25, 1993 is appalling. The commissioners were elected by the people in consideration of the policies and practices they offered. In threatening to use your position to remove them from office you are, in effect, telling the people that you may work to override their vote. Who elected you to try to direct our interests?

What we all need to recognize is that the county educational system already absorbs 40 percent of the county budget. What we certainly don't need is to change what has been a reasonably balanced approach to county funding. An approach that attempts to recognize all of the county's interests and requirements.

A decision to have the county start living on borrowed money is an extremely serious issue. It is tempting to try to have everything we'd like to have right now and let the future take care of itself (i.e., a credit card tax structure). This is irresponsible. The entire nation is struggling with the national debt and Garrett County should not start down the opposite path of accumulating debt.

You and others of this buy now and pay later mentality consistently ignore the true costs involved. Bonds like other loans have interest rates. Depending upon the terms, the $475,000 educational bond could easily entail an additional $200,000 interest charge over a 15-year period. This bond, on top of other urgent county funding needs (e.g., the waste disposal facility) will likely exceed $1,000,000. Our families will be obligated to pay many thousands of dollars to the banks and/or the state on just the interest charges—tax money spent which will then not be available for new county projects. You and Commissioner Bransky have an obligation to present the true facts on the costs involved with any proposed bonds.

We should have a referendum on this impor-

Senior Citizens' Menus

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week. The menu for the week of March 8-12 is as follows:
Day 1 - Orange juice, fish, baked potato w/mashed cheese, peas and carrots, oat bread, pound cake.
Day 2 - Baked chicken breast, dressing w/gravy, broccoli, roll, peaches w/pudding sauce.
Coffee, tea, and milk are served with all meals.
On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

foundation upon which our great country was built. Only change back toward these values will be of any benefit. Please count me among those who still believe in the basics.

Sincerely,
Roger Skipper

Dear Mr. Skipper,

We agree with you that some media, particularly television media, do indeed "masquerade political bias as news." We believe, for example, and even said so during the past presidential campaign, that most of the television media were biased against President Bush.

However, we do not consider ourselves to be among the guilty, and we would invite any of our readers to give us examples of biased news reporting in our newspaper.

Let me clarify the threat noted in the editorial last week. When I said we would "do everything in our power to bring an end to their political careers," I meant we would use this column, and this column only, to encourage people to vote them out of office. I assure you we will uphold the principles of good journalism by continuing to give "both sides" of every issue in our news columns.

Perhaps I should have made that clear last week. Thank you for giving us this opportunity.

The column in the upper left corner of this page is an editorial; it is not a news column. By definition, an editorial is an opinion and thus, an editorial is biased. But we will continue to keep our opinions confined to this corner.

Raised Bed Gardening

by Nina Adams

Most home gardeners rarely begin with an ideal site for their garden; instead, they pick the best place available and then modify it. Raised bed gardening can be the perfect solution for gardeners with the not-so-perfect soil or site.

With this method of gardening, you can create the ideal environment for the plants that you want to grow while saving time and increasing your yields.

Raised beds are essentially container gardening on a larger scale. Vegetables or flowers are planted close together in beds of soil that are built up six to 10 inches above ground level and loomed six to 10 inches below ground level.

Permanent raised beds are generally built with a frame of rocks, bricks, or landscaping timbers with walkways running between the beds. The beds are designed narrowly enough so that you can reach the center and work them from either side. This prevents the soil from ever being stepped on and compacted by foot traffic. The looser soil allows plants to root better and makes digging and weeding easier.

The soil used to fill the beds can be matched to the specific needs of the plants. You can improve the soil you have by adding organic matter to it or fill the beds with topsoil brought in from another area. Nutrients, lime, or sand can be added to adjust the soil to the plants' requirements. For example, a mix of oak leaf compost, bark, and topsoil would be used for plants requiring an acidic soil.

After the bed is prepared, the plants are spaced closely and evenly throughout the bed. By growing the plants closer together, the leaves weave together and help shade the ground. This keeps the ground cooler and acts as a mulch, preventing most weeds from growing and conserving the moisture in the soil. Close planting also means higher yields in a smaller area than conventional gardens.

Since Garrett County is an area with a limited number of growing days, the framed beds can also be used as a cold frame or hotbed by covering them with plastic or old windows. This creates a greenhouse effect and allows you to start plants earlier by protecting them from the cold weather.

Raised bed gardening offers an added plus for the older gardener because it is easier to sit on the edge of the framed bed and weed than to get up and down to work a ground-level garden.

Although the initial preparation of the raised beds will take some effort, this can be a worthwhile alternative way to garden - especially for the gardener with limited time, space, or poor soil.

THREE CHARGED

Three men were arrested Saturday by state police following a disturbance at the Wisp Resort Hotel, McHenry. William Jones, 20, Silver Spring, was charged with destruction of property, disorderly conduct, and an underage alcohol violation.

Virgil Hobbs, 20, and Christopher Daniels, 20, both of Rockville, were each charged with underage alcohol violations.

The three had been arrested after state police were called to the hotel late Saturday night regarding a disturbance in Room 217. Upon the police's arrival, Jones was allegedly being loud and disorderly. There was also damage to a wall. Police stated that it was determined that Jones had caused the damage. Police also said that all three men were in possession of alcohol.

WOMAN CHARGED

An Oakland woman was charged with DWI and resisting arrest last Thursday by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater. Barbara L. Stemple, 48, was charged with those offenses following a routine traffic stop on U.S. Rt. 219, north of the Gortner Road, at 1:17 a.m.

Broadwater stated that she allegedly resisted arrest by pulling away and had to be forcibly handcuffed.

OTHER DWI ARRESTS

Two additional motorists were charged with DWI this past week by state police. Susan M. Pitek, 20, Idemay, W. Va., was stopped on Saturday and charged with DWI by Tfc. J.K. Moore. David E. Stewart, 29, Oakland, was charged with DWI on Monday by Tfc. A.S. MacLane.

SNOWBOARD THEFT

State police are investigating the theft of a snowboard from the Wisp Resort on February 21. Samuel Wagner, Accident, told police he left his snowboard outside the lodge and when he returned a short time later it was gone.

BREAKING AND ENTERING

Tfc. W.E. Dixon is investigating a reported breaking and entering at Curtis R. Fox residence at Walters Trailer Court. That incident reportedly occurred on February 21 and the investigation is continuing.

"I Can't Pay The Rent!" "You Must Pay The Rent!"

by John R. McEwen

If you liked those old cartoons with Snideley Whiplash and Penelope Pitstop, you'll love Only An Orphan Girl by Henning Nelms, on stage now at GCC. And even if you didn't like them, you'll probably like this one.

This is turn-of-the-century melodrama at its hokiest best. Expertly directed by Nate Motz, the show stars Richard Hill as the evil, thin-moustached Arthur Rutherford, and Addy Wilson as Nellie Perkins, the young heroine who finds herself in one prickly predicament after another, thanks to the dastardly villain.

Director Motz has obviously grasped the true essence of melodrama by encouraging the audience to cheer the heroes and boo (and throw peanuts at) the villain. This results in an evening of full-blown fun not likely to be equaled anywhere these days.

Hill's Rutherford is the perfect cad. He pretends to be in love with the young girl solely to get at her huge inheritance (of which only he is aware), and when she is reluctant, he is perfectly willing to kill her for it instead.

He skulks around the stage in his tuxedo and top hat, chewing his cigar while he tells the audience of his evil aims, and practically invites the torrent of boos and peanuts which he deserves.

Nellie is lovable in her innocence. We are immediately sensible of the great injustice heaped on her, and Miss Wilson doesn't hesitate to milk our pity for all it's worth in classic writ-to-forhead style. Nice job.

Also extremely present are Jane Avery and Sam Sanders, who play the girl's adoptive parents, and Gina Powell as the sweet little daughter of the Widow Appleby, owner of the Perkins' farm. The 10-year-old Powell is irresistibly likeable, and the pigtailed add the perfect touch.

Rounding out the cast are Luther Groves as the young hero, Courtney Myers as the aforementioned Appleby, and Barbara Kirkham as the villain's unwilling accomplice. The entire cast overacts in hilarious fashion; particularly Avery, who really lays it on with a trowel.

Filling the scene changes with their tight barber shop harmonies is the quartet The Men of Accord, another good choice by Motz. And George McDowell adds to the show by playing cheesy old silent-picture style music on his pinky-piano.

The set and lighting designs are by Nathan Blatchley and Ben Sincell, respectively. Both are simple but functional, again appropriate for melodrama.

All in all, this is a very enjoyable evening of light-hearted fun. Nothing is quite so gratifying as seeing your peanut bounce smartly off of Richard Hill's shoulder. Brave the weather for it, and by all means, bring the kids. Only An Orphan Girl was originally scheduled for tonight through Sunday, March 4-7, but tonight's performance has been cancelled as a result of the weather. Please listen to the radio for other cancellations or possible additional performances. Performances begin at 8:00 p.m. with the exception of Sunday's show, which starts at 3:00 p.m. Ticket prices are $6 (adults) and $2 (students).

who signed on to this program kept their end of the deal by not developing their farms and expecting they would be reimbursed through the fund. Now, the administration must tell these farmers that they, once again, will be put on hold.

The measure will be heard in the House Appropriations Committee on March 10.

Increases in operation and maintenance expense account for 75 percent of the $23 million request. "Unfortunately, the Commission did not allow the level of power station maintenance that we considered necessary and requested," Noia says.

Noia added that Potomac Edison customers still benefit from some of the lowest electric rates on the East Coast.

Panel Votes To Uphold Student Service Mandate

The Senate Economic and Environmental Affairs Committee voted last week in favor of upholding the Maryland requirement that students perform 75 hours of community service in order to be eligible for graduation.

In a 6-5 vote, the committee backed the new requirement — the first of its kind in the nation — that will take effect with ninth-graders during the upcoming school year.

Proponents of the requirement contend that community service will serve to motivate children to be less greedy and more in-involved in helping others. Opponents of the measure say that "mandatory volunteerism" will be too costly for the state, steal time from other school subjects, and would be especially burdensome for those without after-school transportation.

The requirement by the State Board of Education went into effect last year despite objections from most of the 24 local school districts.

Recycling Bill Amendment Dies

An amendment to a bill that would require some plastic containers to be made from at least 25% recycled plastic, beginning in 1996, was defeated last week by Senate environmentalists who have reportedly said the amendment would weaken the bill.

The amendment sought to expand the scope of the measure to all (instead of only two) categories of plastic.

As is, the bill includes only those containers used for soft drinks and detergents. While some legislators reportedly believed the amendment would weaken the bill, others said it strengthened it.

Legislators Plan Large Cuts In Budget Proposal

State legislative leaders are reportedly planning to cut at least $100 million out of Governor William Donald Schaefer's budget proposal that includes about $300 million in state spending increases.

Approximately $45 million of that cut will come from planned increases in state aid to local jurisdictions, and the rest from state agencies.

After three years of budget shortfalls, reports indicate a willingness among members of the House and Senate to work together to trim the budget and remain cautious about spending.

Schaefer's spending proposal of $12.7 billion amounted to a 4.5% increase over this year's budget, 2.5% of which he said could be financed by growth projections and the rest from the now keno gambling game and fee increases.

The legislature, however, would rather increase spending based only on the 2.5% projected increase in economic growth. The legislative leadership is reportedly in agreement that the local jurisdictions will have to take their share of the cuts. Among the other cuts expected are $22 million set aside for step pay raises for state employees who have not received increases in three years, and about $15 million from welfare and Medicaid payments.

Details of the budget are expected to be announced later this week.

GIRL SCOUT WEEK PROCLAIMED - The Garrett County Commissioners proclaimed Girl Scout Week to be observed March 8-14, asking all Garrett County citizens to give their continued support, cooperation, and interest in the Girl Scouts through 1993 and beyond. The first United States Girl Scout Troop met on March 12, 1912, under the direction of Juliette Low. At that time, Ms. Low said, "the girls will decide whether the plan is good or not, and reject it if it isn't. You can trust them to know." Today, 81 years later, the program continues to grow. This year's theme is "The Girl is First in Girl Scouting." Illustrating how the girl has always been the primary reason for the program, the commissioners' proclamation notes that girls today will become leaders of tomorrow, developing leadership skills through the scouting program, and that the girls learn to respect, understand, and appreciate the cultural diversity of their sister Girl Scouts and of people in their communities. The proclamation also states that Girl Scouts have fun while learning new skills, meeting new people, and exploring new ideas based on timeless values. In the photo above, seated, are Commissioners Brenda Butcher and Elwood Groves. Standing, left to right, are Angie Tichnell, Jessica Stiles, Brittany Georg, Marianne Unger, Dorey Brantboover, Jennifer Fitzwater, Tonya Livengood, Heather Browning, and Jessica Fitzwater. Mrs. Vent explained that she and Coviello surveyed the county's juniors to ask them what they would like to see at the Expo.

"This is the first year we have had such a survey," Mrs. Vent said. "We have used the top 18 requests made by the students, so we're excited about the event because it is what the kids have asked for. We think it keeps the students interested, and will be beneficial to them, too."

Association Of Forest Boards Holds Meeting

The Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy district boards met Saturday in Annapolis in the Holiday Inn. Karin Miller, Grantsville, represented the Garrett County Forest Conservancy District Board at this meeting.

Gary Griffith, president of the Association, welcomed the board members and talked about the future of the Association working to promote forestry and forest conservation. Forestry and forest management will continue to change in the upcoming years and it will be increasingly important for the Forestry Boards to stay on the "cutting edge" to insure that forestry will continue to be a viable industry in the State, according to Griffith.

The Association discussed some of the legislation proposed this year that will affect forestry and the Department of Natural Resources. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards. The governor has issued a proclamation declaring 1993 as "Forest Conservancy Year" to commemorate this anniversary. All boards were urged to include this theme in their activities this year.

One of the primary goals of the Forest Conservancy district boards is to promote forestry and forest conservation through information and education activities. The Boards accomplish this goal by sponsoring such activities as forestry tours, the Chesapeake Bay School Reforestation Project, the Forestry, Conservation and Natural Resources Week, Arbor Day plantings, etc.

The Forestry, Conservation and Natural Resources Week program sponsored by the Association is scheduled to be held July 25-31 at Hickory Environmental Education Center near Accident. This is a program for high school students, grade 9-12, who are interested in pursuing a career in a natural resources related field. The program is designed to give the students some insights into the various careers available.

Placing second in the competition was Jack Reedy, of Reedy's Auction Service, and third place was won by Norman Hunter, of Hunter's Sale Barn. Dement started in the auction business in 1980. He worked for East Coast Auctions and George Hunt's Auctions before starting his own auction service in Garrett County. Seventy-eight members of the Maryland association attended the three-day convention, which also consisted of seminars, banquets, a fun auction, and fellowship.

able, and the training required to qualify for these positions.

Two students will be selected from applicants in each county. The local forestry boards solicit sponsors from the community to cover the costs of sending the students to the week-long program. It costs the students nothing to attend.

This year, one school teacher from each region will be invited to attend the program and participate with the students. In 1994 the Association plans to sponsor a Forestry, Conservation and Natural Resources Week program for students, and a second week program for teachers from across the state.

Nine Association members were recognized for 23 years or more of service on the Forestry Boards. James Danmyer, assistant secretary of Public Lands and Forestry, presented each honoree with a governor's citation in recognition of their years of service to the State.

With Sincere Appreciation
To all who shared our sorrow
To comfort us with a touch of a hand, a hug, a kiss, or a shoulder to cry on;
Perhaps you helped to give him care,
Or sang a touching song,
Perhaps you sent a lovely flower,
If so, we saw them there.
Perhaps you came and just sat quietly,
Just to show you cared.
Perhaps you sent or spoke comforting words,
Or knelt with us to pray.
Perhaps you were not there at all,
Just thought of us each day.
Perhaps you prepared some tasty food,
Or rendered a service unseen.
Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank You sincerely, whatever the part.
To all who said what a great guy he was - one of the best - We always knew, but it was nice to hear from others who loved him, too.
We will always remember your kindness. We love you.
God bless all of you.

Local People Explain Life With MS: A Mysterious, Uncurable Disease

by Bernice Kipple

Multiple Sclerosis is a mysterious disease. With no known cause and no known cure, it strikes nearly 200 people in the United States each week, bringing the total to an estimated quarter of a million Americans with the disease. In Garrett County alone, there are approximately 40 to 50 cases.

For those with the disease, all aspects of life must be re-evaluated. The disease most often strikes people who are in their 20s or 30s, young adults with families and jobs who are just getting their lives started. Women develop it more frequently than men, whites more frequently than blacks or Orientals, and the reasons are not yet understood. This chronic disease of the central nervous system changes people's lives, allowing nothing, not even the simplest everyday tasks, to be taken for granted.

Actually, the cause of MS is known. What causes the disease is what is not known. Our bodies contain a fatty substance called myelin which surrounds and protects nerve fibers of the brain and spinal cord (the central nervous system) in the same way that insulation protects electrical wires. When any part of this myelin sheathing, or insulation, is destroyed, nerve impulses to the brain are interrupted and distorted—like a short circuit in the electrical wires. The result is multiple sclerosis.

Every person with MS has different combinations and degrees of symptoms. These symptoms can run the gamut from slight blurring of vision to complete paralysis. The fact that every person is affected differently, in itself, makes research difficult. For people with MS the support of family, friends and community is important, and the hope given by research can add new dimensions to their lives.

To help fund this necessary research each year, the National Multiple Sclerosis Society kicks spring off with "Super Cities Walks" in towns and cities across the nation. This year's Western Maryland Super Cities

Walk will take place Saturday, March 27, at the Allegany Canal Park in Cumberland. A group from Garrett County, representing the local MS Self-Help (Support) Group, will be taking part in this worthy cause. They urge everyone to take part by walking or making a pledge to a walker. For information, those interested may call Judy Smith at 387-4926.

In an effort to inform and educate, as well as seek public support for the Super Cities Walk and for research, the Garrett County Self-Help (Support) Group would like to introduce you to some local people with multiple sclerosis. Their stories show the difficulty they had "coming to grips" with the disease, and the hope they have for the future—hope fed by strides in research which, hopefully, will someday produce a cure.

Nancy Ruff was on the nursing staff of Garrett Memorial Hospital for eight years, and a West Virginia Department of Health nurse for 13 years. She is a mother of two daughters and two sons. Her account follows.

"Soon, it will be time for a 'walk' of great importance to me as well as some of my friends. I am referring to the walk for multiple sclerosis. MS is a neuro-muscular disease. It takes many forms, and the cause is not yet known, although it is not contagious or fatal. With on-going research, both the cause and cure could be found.

"When I was asked to write a personal account of my problems, I was reluctant at first. I have MS, and in retrospect of on-going problems, have probably had it for 12 years. I am fortunate that it is not as virulent as it could be. No one knows when or how it will attack. No one is exempt from it.

"My problem started with blindness in one eye for a time, then double-vision, loss of coordination and balance and weakness of the lower extremities.

"It is difficult to diagnose, since it mimics other diseases. In my case, it was a process of on-going painful tests, numerous visits to specialists and finally, after three M.R.I. visits, it became very evident on the films.

"The symptoms come and go for me. My husband and family have been very supportive and helpful. With every new problem, they simply say, 'We can deal with it.' We are dealing with it.

"I am able to work part-time on the Dennett Road Nursing staff. They have been extremely understanding and tolerant as the exacerbations flare up.

"For me, every day is a victory, and there are a lot of us out here co-existing with MS. Hopefully, soon we will be able to say, 'MS = mystery solved,' with your prayers and support.

Mrs. John (Nancy) Ruff Helen Wolfe addresses her story to those with the disease as well as the general public.

"I am writing this letter to everyone who has multiple sclerosis. It is a frightening disease, especially when we are first diagnosed with it. There are a number of small side effects, such as numbness, loss of balance and dizziness. When these are explained, you eventually learn to cope with them.

"I was 25 years old when Dr. Tratter from Morgantown diagnosed me. I didn't know what to do. I had two small girls to raise and a husband and a home to care for. I found that helping other people seemed to help me. I donated time to the Girl Scouts and taught crafts at different organizations. I have talked to a lot of MS patients who needed a little encouragement to get over the 'bumps' in their lives.

"Remember to exercise. It's very important! But listen to your body, it will tell you when you are over doing it.

"To all the children whose parents have MS, you can really help them by doing small chores and most of all let them know you love them. I know from personal experience that family support makes a great difference in facing this disease. My friends, mother, girls, sons-in-law, grandchildren and now my four-year-old great-grandson have helped me face living 40 years with MS. I thank all of you! We can survive and manage this terrible disease with hope.

Helen Wolfe Jack Ruff tells his story from the heart-wrenching vantage point of a man who had to give up a successful business he worked hard to build.

"I was born and raised near Red House. After graduating from high school, I went to Cleveland, Ohio, where I obtained employment. I worked near Cleveland for 30 years and returned to Red House to build a home and start a business.

"After returning, I ran my business for about three years. It was at this point that I developed symptoms and knew that something was wrong with my leg. I went to the doctor and was referred to West Virginia University Hospital and then the Cleveland Clinic where I was diagnosed as having MS.

"Previously to this, I was very active—hunting, fishing and building my house. Since the onset of this disease I have been affected greatly. I can no longer do the things a normal 50-year-old can do, for instance, cutting firewood or doing maintenance on my vehicle and home.

"About a year ago it was necessary for me to close my business. I am no longer able to walk. The things that I used to do, I now must hire someone else to do. I have an electric cart that I get around the house with. This is a progressive disease and the doctors say there is nothing they can do for me.

Jack Ruff Bob and Marianne Flinn, who own and operate Flinn's Family Store in Oakland, have the undesirable "opportunity" to explain what it is like to have a child with MS.

"On a July morning in 1991 we received a telephone call from our daughter, Melody Flinn Welch, who expressed concern about awakening that day with numbness on her left side and her chest. Unable to offer an explanation, we asked her to promise to seek medical attention if it persisted that day. The numbness and additional discomforts continued to be a part of her daily life for months, and the neurologist could not make a clear-cut diagnosis. However, after Melody underwent many neurological examinations and tests (MRIs, evoked response tests, and a spinal tap), the neurologists were satisfied with the clinical criteria last April, 1992, our 25-year-old daughter was diagnosed as having multiple sclerosis.

"Although the diagnosis was a shock that hit hard, we all experienced a sigh of relief after the months of uncertainty. We immediately discovered one way of lessening the shock was to learn as much as possible about MS as quickly as possible. We read every available current book and article we could find and talked with many knowledgeable and caring friends and individuals. At the same time, we, as parents, were experiencing every possible emotion. At first, we went through a period of denial. Why did this have to happen to our daughter? This can't be true! What can we do? The tests were read incorrectly! You name it, and we said or asked it!

"Soon, another emotion began to creep into our lives. For a brief time, anger was a daily companion. We had just been told our daughter had a disease that could come and go at its own discretion, and for which there was no cure. We were, at times, furious. It made us want to scream—'We did. Sometimes, we cried. Slamming a door, smashing a cup, punching a pillow, or throwing a shoe helped ventilate our anger. Although we believed we had a right to be angry, we knew the rest of the world wouldn't be tolerant forever. By that time, we felt we had gone through the initial emotional stages, and that it was time to move on in life and to learn about acceptance and coping.

"Presently, we are learning to take one step at a time and to not worry about all the 'what ifs.' Both of us believe we did a proper job in preparing our daughter to face adversity. Her strength, determination, positive attitudes, and beautiful outlook on life are proof of this. She has been a true source of strength to us. In fact, there are times when it appears that the parent/child roles are in reversal. Because of her attitude, MS is less and less a focus of life for all her family.

Even the unpredictability of MS, which is one of the most frustrating factors, is easier to cope with because our daughter tells us that she knows we can face future challenges of multiple sclerosis if and when they happen—not by wasting beautiful today's by worrying about stormy tomorrows that might not occur.

"We feel very fortunate that Garrett County has a Multiple Sclerosis Self-Help (Support) Group. Their interest, encouragement, and concern has been another source of strength for us. This group asked us to write about MS in the lives of parents who have an adult child with this mysterious disease. We hope that—in even a small way—it will help others who might one day hear a doctor saying, 'Your child has multiple sclerosis.'

"Being a Christian doesn't guarantee us protection from the concerns, cares, and hurts of our children. But as believers, we are promised something more important: God's ever-present help and strength in dealing with and coping with concerns."

Bob and Marianne Flinn The Garrett County Self-Help (Support) Group will hold a meeting on Wednesday, March 17, at 7 p.m. at Community Action's Area Agency on Aging Office in the basement of the T.C.I. building on Third Street in Oakland. Parking is available and a handicapped accessible ramp leads to the basement. The guest speaker will be Dr. Raz A. Janjua (on video tape), noted neurologist from Cumberland, who will review the symptoms, give a research update, and discuss new experimental drugs of promise. Everyone, those with MS, family members and friends, as well as all those interested, are welcome to attend.

Huskies End 14-Year Drought With 61-47 Win Over Southern

The Northern High School varsity boys basketball team concluded its 1992-93 regular season campaign last Thursday night at home with a big 61-47 victory over cross-county rival Southern.

It was the first win over Southern Rams in some 14 seasons, as the Rams have won over 30 straight contests since 1979. The win topped the Huskies' record to 16-6 and gave them a momentum boost for last night's Region I Class A playoff contest with Mt. Savage at Garrett Community College (see separate story).

Meanwhile, the Southern Rams went on to end their season on a winning note Saturday night by defeating visiting Beall, 67-63. Coach Steve Liller's squad, which showed marked improvement in the past few weeks, finish with a 7-14 mark and did not qualify for the Region I Class 2A tournament.

Tim Hinesbaugh led the Huskies in last Thursday night's match-up against the Rams, as he pumped in 20 points, while teammate Brian Kamp recorded 17 points, grabbed 14 rebounds, and blocked four shots in one of his most balanced performances of the season. Rob Speicher also reached double figures with 11 points and was credited with seven assists.

The Rams held a two-point advantage at the end of the first quarter, 13-11, but fell behind by four and for good by halftime, 25-21. The Huskies out-scored Southern by four points in the third stanza to take a 43-35 lead into the final period.

The Northern defense held Southern's top scorer, Jeremy Bosley, to just four points and didn't allow any of the Rams to reach double figures. Mark Elliott and Brian Reams each scored nine points to lead Southern's offense.

Defense was the key for the Huskies in the second half. After giving up eight offensive rebounds in the first half, which led to 10 points, Northern allowed only one offensive rebound in the second half.

"We really took care of the ball in the second half and controlled the glass," Northern Coach Harv Speicher said. "We also did a great job against Bosley and Elliott."

The Southern junior varsity team was victorious in the preliminary game, topping the Northern jays, 49-32, behind an 18-point effort by Brian Carlson. Chris Elliott scored 16 to lead the Huskies, who concluded their season with an 11-9 mark.

Elliott and Bosley were not so contained Saturday night by the Beall Mountaineers, as Elliott ripped the nets for 27 points and Bosley finished with 15, including a pair of key free throws in the final seconds.

Beall won the first half of the contest, holding leads of 20-15 and 33-32 at the end of the first two quarters. But the Rams knotted the score at 45-45 by the end of the third period and took the lead early in the final stanza.

The Rams went on top by five points, 65-60, with less than 20 seconds to play when Darrell Bush nailed a three-pointer to pull the Mountaineers within two points at the 17-second mark. But Bosley was fouled on the following possession and hit both free throws to secure the win.

Bush finished with 15 points to lead Beall, while Greg Fike and John Michaels scored 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Reams added nine points to the Rams' total. The Southern junior varsity went down to defeat in the preliminary game, 51-33, as Chris Young paced the Beall jays with 15 points. Carlson netted 15 to lead the Rams.

Laker Women Fall To Devils In Region XX Quarterfinals

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team enjoyed considerable success this year, but saw the season come to an end Saturday afternoon in Frederick when the Lakers lost an exciting 90-86 game to Baltimore CC in the quarterfinals of the Region XX tournament.

The Lakers, who went into the tournament seeded sixth and with a record of 14-9, got into a three-point shooting war with the Red Devils, hitting a dozen long-range shots, compared to 11 by Baltimore. Freshman Krista Keplinger poured in a career-high 34 points, 21 of which were scored on three-point goals, to pace Garrett, while Yetisha Mackey ripped the nets for 40 points. She hit five buckets from long-range.

Former Southern High standout Michele Duling added 23 points, with 15 on three-point goals, to pace Garrett, while Yetisha Mackey ripped the nets for 40 points. She hit five buckets from long-range.

Also reaching double figures for Baltimore were Crystal Hall with 18 points, all but three of which were scored on long-range goals. Yohan Green with 15, and Yolanda Williams with 15.

The Lakers held a 51-45 halftime lead, but were out-rebounded in the second half.

Huskies Ousted By Mount Savage In Region I, Class 1A Playoffs

Early foul trouble and an outstanding performance by Mount Savage guard Brian Brehm paved the way for defeat for the Northern High Huskies last night in the semifinals of the Region I, Class 1A playoffs at Garrett Community College, as the fourth-seeded Indians upset the top-ranked Huskies, 46-36.

The Huskies enjoyed just one brief lead in the contest, a 9-6 advantage in the first quarter, before the Indians scored six straight points to end the period with a 12-9 lead. They increased their advantage to 19-14 by half-time and led 31-23 after three quarters. Northern finished with just four field goals in the first half.

The early foul trouble centered around Northern's Paul Edwards, who was called for three infractions less than two minutes into the game. This forced Coach Harv Speicher to change his defensive alignment and put point guard Rob Speicher on Brehm.

Speicher paced the Huskies with 13 points, Brian Kamp had 10 points and nine rebounds, and Tim Hinebaugh came off the bench to contribute 10 points.

We had some good shots, but they just didn't fall," Speicher said, "and against their zone we didn't execute well at all."

The Huskies concluded the season with a 16-7 mark, while Mount Savage, now 14-4, will meet Westmar in Friday's Region I championship contest. Westmar rolled over Smithsburg, 82-57, in the other semifinal.

"I really didn't want to have to make Rob work so hard on defense when he also had to run the offense from his point guard position," Coach Speicher said. "Paul is one of our best defensive players, but we had to make a change to keep him in the game late on."

Brehm, who scored 30 points in the Indians' playoff win over Clear Spring, missed only one shot in the second half and finished with 22 points, 10 rebounds, and seven assists. He scored a double-figure effort from Tom Shaffer, who netted 14 points and pulled down seven rebounds.

The Indians, who led by as many as 14 points in the fourth quarter, also received a double-figure effort from Tom Shaffer, who netted 14 points and pulled down seven rebounds.

Speicher paced the Huskies with 13 points, Brian Kamp had 10 points and nine rebounds, and Tim Hinebaugh came off the bench to contribute 10 points.

Northern, Southern Girls Wrap Up Regular Seasons At 13-9, 15-4

The Northern and Southern girls' teams concluded their regular season schedules this past week by meeting each other last Thursday night and then each playing one final game before entering Tuesday night's regional playoff games.

The Rams crushed the Huskies in Thursday afternoon's game at Northern, 47-19, and then lost to Wilde Lake on Saturday in Columbia, 59-42, while the Huskies dropped a 46-33 decision to Fort Hill, 46-33, in Accident. Both local teams were defeated in their respective playoff contests Tuesday night (see separate story).

Carrie Newcomb paced the Southern offense against the cold-shooting Huskies as she finished with 23 points. Northern was on top 5-4 at the end of a sluggish first quarter for both teams, but the Rams began to pull away in the second stanza as they moved out to a 22-15 half-time advantage. The Huskies scored only four points the entire second half, two in the third quarter and two in the fourth, as they finished with a dismal nine-for-61 performance from the floor.

Staci Kiser finished with eight points for the Rams, while Aaron Buser recorded seven. Wanda Swartzwelder led Northern with seven points.

The Southern junior varsity won the preliminary game in a much closer contest, 34-28, to record their 10th win against no defeats.

Lakers Ripped By Trojans In Region Contest

Life in the 1993 Region XX NJCAA District Tournament was short-lived for Garrett Community College last week, as the Lakers were hammered by second-seeded Allegany CC, 85-52, Saturday night in Hagerstown. It was the third loss of the year to the nationally ranked Trojans, who are 24-4 and went on to win the Region XX title by defeating Hagerstown Junior College on Sunday.

As they did in their previous two meetings with the Trojans, the Lakers played well in the early going and led 19-18 at the 9:42 mark following a three-point bucket by Fred Wilson. However, the Trojans answered with 10 straight points and held a 33-22 lead at halftime, as Tony Thompson hit a jumper at the buzzer.

The Trojans maintained the momentum after intermission, as they opened with a 12-0 scoring spurt to take a commanding 44-25 advantage. A foul shot by Thompson with about five minutes remaining put ACC up by 30 points, 72-42.

The Trojans hit 56 percent of their shots from the floor (29 of 56), while the Lakers netted only 14 of 50 for 28 percent. Garrett was also out-rebounded by a 41-26 margin.

Leading the Trojans' scoring effort were Dennis Leonard and Zain Shaw, who each recorded 17 points, while Tori Wilson finished with 16 and Thompson added 14. Wilson and Thompson also each pulled down eight rebounds and Leonard dished out nine assists.

Brett Rice paced the Lakers with 17 points, 15 of which were scored on three-point goals. Wilson added eight points.

The Lakers finished with a 13-14 record, which was disappointing to Coach Dennis Gibson. "I thought we had the talent to be a lot better," he said.

Food For Thought

by
Chef John Dressel
McClives Restaurant

They look like french fries, but they're better. Cut 4 large russet potatoes lengthwise into eights and toss with 1/2 cup olive oil and 1 tsp. dried crushed red pepper. Bake on a cookie sheet about an hour at 375 degrees, turning once. Add salt, pepper and parmesan cheese.

Spike chunky applesauce with Calvados or Cognac. It's great served with chicken or pork.

Making pancakes is so easy, no one needs a mix. Combine 1 1/2 cups white or whole-wheat flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1/2 tsp. baking soda, 2 egg whites, 1/2 cup plain yogurt, 1/2 cup milk and 1 tsp. vegetable oil. Works best on non-stick griddle.

And here's a sweet topping with half the calories of honey-half a cup of frozen apple juice concentrate mixed with 2 tbs. water.

Come taste the dish that made us famous.

Maryland Parks Go Trash-Free As Of March 1

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has implemented a program designed to help eliminate unsightly litter, trash and debris from day-use areas of Maryland's state parks and forests effective March 1, according to DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D.

All trash barrels, receptacles, and dumpsters have been removed from picnic and beach areas within the parks. Visitors will be asked to remove their own refuse in bags provided when they enter the park. Campgrounds will not be included in the program.

"The primary objective of the 'Trash-Free Parks' program," Dr. Brown said, "is to improve the visitor's recreational experience by eliminating unsightly trash and the odors, bees and animals that gather at trash receptacles." Dr. Brown added that the DNR wants to encourage visitors to recycle which in turn will help take some of the pressure off the landfills.

According to Rick Barton, DNR's director of the State Forest and Park Service, similar "carry in carry out" programs have been "extremely successful" in 21 other states. "Once people are introduced to the program they become very supportive and are pleased not to be confronted with overflowing trash containers, bees and raccoons which often carry diseases," Barton said.

Another benefit of this program, according to Barton, is that it will enable funds from already-strained budgets to be redirected to long-term maintenance within the parks and to education program development.

"We were somewhat skeptical at first," said William J. Hawkins, chief of Rhode Island Division of Parks, referring to the Rhode Island's "Carry In/Carry Out" program. "But after two years, I am happy to say Rhode Islanders and out-of-state visitors to our parks and beaches have enthusiastically participated in the program and it has been a tremendous success. Our parks and beaches have never been cleaner," Hawkins said.

The Maryland Environmental Service, the state's lead agency in promoting recycling and solid-waste reduction, is a sponsor of the "carry-out" bags and will be encouraging park visitors to recycle not only refuse but also used oil and antifreeze. "One thing we hope to do through this new program," Dr. Brown explained, "is to foster an environmental responsibility for the forests and parks that will carry over to use of other resources. It's an idea whose time has come."

Right To Life Meeting Slated

Accident Home Base Headstart To Hold Drawing

The Accident Home Base Headstart Parent Group is having a 50/50 drawing. Tickets are available in Accident at the Headstart Center, Hartman's Amoco, Goehring's Restaurant, and from parents of the Headstart children. Tickets will also be available through Kathy Millican at the Community Action Office in Oakland. This will be the last fundraiser this year for that group, according to a spokesperson.

The money they earn will be used to take the children to the Pittsburgh Zoo. The drawing will be held April 2 at 1 p.m. at the Accident

IGA. The holder of the winning ticket need not be present to win.
